

Protest teacher bashing by the Los Angeles Times

UTLA Demonstration

Tuesday, September 14th
4:30 - 6:00 p.m.

*LA Times Building Downtown LA
202 W. 1st St., L.A. 90012*

The LA Times has publicly targeted teachers and our profession by irresponsibly labeling 6,000 of our colleagues “ineffective” and “effective” teachers.

This is part of a broader movement to bash and scapegoat teachers, rather than hold the politicians and other decision makers accountable for the state of public education. We all know that good teaching cannot be reduced to a test score.

“An Injury to One is an Injury to All”

Show your outrage and solidarity with our elementary colleagues. Demand a public apology. Let the public know the real story.

SOME “VALUE ADDED” IDEAS FOR YOUR OLD LA TIMES

Birdcage liner

Dog toiletries

Fish wrapping

Although up to now the Times has concentrated its “efforts” on grades 3 to 5, they have threatened to expand their database to include secondary schools.

Everyone needs to attend this demonstration. Let the Times hear from us!
